

HELP WANTED FOR ARCHAEOLOGICAL WORK

An archaeological excavation of shell middens in the Dampier area will be conducted during the next four months in order to attempt the dating of rock engravings and patterns of aboriginal occupation of various sites.

Dr Michel Lorblanchet, a consultant to the Australian Institute of Aboriginal Studies will be resident in the area for this period and will need the help of a number of persons, either in spare time or full time in order to excavate as much as possible of two important middens situated within the Dampier Salt Industrial Lease.

The work required is varied, instructive and interesting.

It will be on the honorary basis and no compensation is anticipated.

All interested persons are requested to telephone Mr Enzo Virili (bus 831344; a/h 851040) for further details and interview.
