Jack McIlroy

HISTORICAL SURVEY PLAN

The Western Australian Museum has appointed Mr Jack McIlroy to carry out the Historical Sites Survey in the Dampier Archipelago.

Following further preliminary research and detailed planning an archaeological historical survey of the Dampier Archipelago and the immediate mainland will be carried out in mid June.

The appointment of Jack McIlroy follows a grant of $20,000 by the Australian Heritage Commission to the State Government in February this year.

Jack who is thirty years old has an honours degree in Social and political theory from Murdoch University. During 1970-74 he had archaeological experience in England. He has also spent a year in the USA and nine months in Israel.
