

Rock art safe from emissions

A scientific report has suggested that industrial emissions on the Burrup Peninsula would not affect ancient Aboriginal rock art, according to West Australian Resources Minister John Bowler.

Andrew Burrell