

Monday, April 28, 2008

Media Alert

www.standupfortheburrup.com

Burrup Vandalism Escalates

Friends of Australian Rock Art (FARA) today released photos of the latest vandalism at Kangaroo Paw Valley on the Burrup in the Dampier National Heritage listed area.

FARA are calling on the Federal Minister to ensure that the National and World heritage value of the area is protected.

As industrialization of the Burrup has grown, increased vandalism has mirrored the expansion.

Neither the State Government nor Industry has done anything to curtail the vandalism by recreational users in the area.

FARA can see no other way to protect the Burrup than by the Federal Minister Peter Garrett ensuring only controlled access to the Heritage site.

The area is now listed as a National Heritage place, and deserves the same level of protection as given to Kakadu (Australia), the Lascaux Cave (France), Stonehenge (England) or the Pyramids (Egypt) all sites which are many thousands of years younger.

We call on those people who have witnessed their friends or associates committing this wanton vandalism to come forward to provide evidence to the State police or Federal Authorities to enable prosecution.

We urge all employees in the area to induct all their staff in the protocols of recreational use of this National Heritage site and put in place instant dismissal and reporting provisions of any member of staff found conducting vandalism.

It is clear from parliamentary questions that whilst the State Department of Indigenous Affairs (DIA) is the responsible body, it does not monitor any of the area and merely records acts of vandalism to Aboriginal sites on the Burrup if reported.

Various methods identified by the DIA in 2007 to protect the Burrup site included fencing, signage, education and track rationalization, none of these have been implemented.

We welcome the Federal and PNG Governments agreement to protect the Kokoda Track from mining and their support for protection of the area by World Heritage listing, we call on the Federal Government to seek World Heritage listing for this, the worlds preeminent prehistoric art site and the site of the horrific 'Flying Foam Massacre' in 1868.

For further comment please contact Robin Chapple on 0409 379263

Question On Notice No. 5555 asked in the Legislative Council on 16 October 2007 by Hon Giz Watson

Question Directed to the: Minister for Local Government representing the Minister for Indigenous Affairs

Minister responding: Hon M.H. Roberts

Question

With regard to the article that appeared in The West Australian on Wednesday, 3 October 2007 Page 19 entitled 'Vandals use power tools to deface art', and I ask –

- (1) When did the vandalism occur?
- (2) When was the Department notified of the vandalism and by whom?
- (3) Has the Department visited the site and when?
- (4) What methods can be used to repair such vandalism?
- (5) Will any efforts be made by the Department to repair the vandalism and when?
- (6) Have Agencies of Government, industry or individuals reported vandalism on the Burrup?
- (7) If yes to (6), which agencies or industries have reported vandalism and on what dates?
- (8) How many acts of vandalism have been recorded on the Burrup?
- (9) Does the Department keep a registry of vandalism to Aboriginal sites contrary to s 17(a) of the Aboriginal Heritage Act 1972 on the Burrup?
- (10) Does the Department keep a registry of vandalism to Aboriginal sites contrary to s 17(a) of the Aboriginal Heritage Act 1972 throughout Western Australia?

- (11) How many prosecutions have been forthcoming as a result of damage to an Aboriginal site contrary to s 17(a) of the Aboriginal Heritage Act 1972 since its inception?
- (12) How many prosecutions have been forthcoming as a result of damage to an Aboriginal site contrary to s 17(a) of the Aboriginal Heritage Act 1972 since this Government took office in 2001?
- (13) How many prosecutions have been forthcoming as a result of damage to an Aboriginal site contrary to s 17(a) of the Aboriginal Heritage Act 1972 in relation to vandalism on the Burrup?
- (14) What methods are applied at Aboriginal sites across Western Australia to ensure that those sites are protected?
- (15) Are the same mechanisms applied to Aboriginal sites on the Burrup and, if not, why not?
- (16) What measures are available on the Burrup to protect the rock art and artefacts?
- (17) Is the Minister of her Department aware of any cultural material, rock art or artefacts being removed or stolen from the Burrup and, if so, how many items?
- (18) Why is vandalism increasing on the Burrup and what action is being taking by the Minister or her Department to protect the rock art and artefacts on the Burrup?
- (19) What direct action is the Minister of her Department taking to pursue prosecution of offenders vandalising or stealing rock art and artefacts from the Burrup?
- (20) Have the police been informed of the vandalism by the Minister's Department and, if so, when?

Answered on 15 November 2007

The Department of Indigenous Affairs (DIA) advises:

- (1) It is not known precisely when this incident occurred except that it is recent.
- (2) DIA was notified of the vandalism by Mr Alex Leach in a report received on 21 August 2007.
- (3) DIA officers first visited the site on 18 October 2007. Due to the extremely rugged access track leading to the site, previous attempts to access it were unsuccessful. DIA officers were required to be taken there by an experienced and capable Department of Environment and Conservation (DEC) staff member.

(4) Deeply pecked vandalism such as has occurred at this site can not be repaired. Instead, works will be undertaken to minimise the visual impact of the vandalism.

(5) Yes, efforts are currently being made to undertake restoration as soon as possible, depending on the availability of a professional conservator to assist with the development of techniques to deal with these unique and complex restoration challenges.

(6) Yes.

(7) Reports are numerous. Provision of this information would require considerable research which would divert staff away from their normal duties and I am not prepared to allocate the State's resources to provide a response.

(8) DIA field officers have recorded numerous acts of vandalism.

(9) No, however DIA staff record acts of vandalism to Aboriginal sites on the Burrup when they become known to them.

(10) DIA maintains a record of all allegations of site disturbance throughout WA.

(11) Six, two of which are currently in progress.

(12) Three, two of which are currently in progress. Whilst the total number of prosecutions is not high, the figures show that this Labor Government is taking a strong approach to protecting Aboriginal heritage compared to previous administrations.

(13) None.

(14) Various methods are available including fencing, signage, education and track rationalisation. Site management strategies are unique to each individual site.

(15) Yes.

(16) Various methods are available including fencing, signage, education and track rationalisation. Site management strategies are unique to each individual site and need to be co-ordinated with the management strategies being developed by DEC and in consultation with the Aboriginal community.

(17) No.

(18) There is no evidence to suggest that vandalism is increasing on the Burrup. DIA has dedicated two senior heritage officers to work on Aboriginal heritage matters on the Burrup.

(19) When sufficient evidence is available prosecution will be sought under section 17 of the Aboriginal Heritage Act 1972.

(20) No. The police are contacted in relation to damage to sites if there is a sufficient body of evidence to pursue prosecution. So far this has not been the case.

